

4th Ege Endocrine Disorders and Genetics Symposium

12-13 March 2021

Dear Colleagues,

Considering the ongoing pandemic process, we would like to inform you that "4th Ege Endocrine Disorders and Genetics Symposium" will be held online on 12-13 March 2021.

As usual, our symposium will enrich the content with sessions with international speakers who will convey the most up-to-date information in the field of genetics and endocrine to you with a multidisciplinary team.

In addition, oral presentation sessions, in which important studies and cases will be conveyed, will take place in our symposium this year as well.

Our goal is to share information together, even if we are in a digital platform, to present a pleasant symposium with all our positive energy and excitement.

In the COVID 19 pandemic that affected the whole world; we once again thank our physicians and all our healthcare professionals for their hard work and devotion, and respectfully commemorate our heroic health martyrs who lost their lives

Regards...

Symposium Chairs
